

Endsheet Setup

Unlike the interior text, endsheets should be supplied as spreads.

To the left is a sample front endsheet with printing on two sides.

● The front endsheet should have one side with the right half of the spread blank (where the endsheet will glue to the board); the back endsheet should have one side with the left half of the spread blank.

● The other half of the spread will be the page facing the interior text block.

● The other side of each endsheet is the first full spread visible when the book is opened from either end.
